

Dog - gie, Dog - gie, Where's your bone? some-one stole it from your home.

Who stole my bone?

GAME: Students sit in a single circle on the floor. One student chosen (by the teacher) to be "it," lies down in the middle of the circle and hides his or her eyes. The teacher places a "bone" (beanbag) by the student. While the class sings the first line of the song, the teacher appoints someone sitting in the circle to take the bone. They then respond with a bark or echo the last phrase with the words I stole the bone. The student in the center then has 3 chances to guess who has the bone. If they guess correctly, they get another turn. If they guess incorrectly, they trade places with the person who has the bone and the game continues.
